Did you know that Arroyo Grande Community Hospital is a nonprofit organization?

Arroyo Grande Community Hospital is a part of Dignity Health, a large not-for-profit health care network – the fifth largest health system in the nation and the largest hospital provider in California.

What does it mean to be nonprofit?

While many organizations distribute surplus revenues to shareholders or owners, nonprofit organizations use these earnings to further achieve their purpose or goal. At Arroyo Grande Community Hospital, all funds remain in our community and further the hospital's purpose of providing compassionate, high-quality, affordable health care.
